"SOME MEN ARE BORN DRUNKARDS.

SOME ACHIEVE DRUNKENNESS

And Some Have Drunkenness Thrust Upon Them."-Dr. Carpenter,

An eminent physician says: "The curability of drunkenness becomes a question of the application of scientific measures and means to conduct or as-sist back to health again. The condi-tion to treat is that of progressive brain and nerve—exhaustion, lowered vi-tality, with damaged and perverted functional activities. Enthusiastic ap-peals to the emotional powers and will are not curative, because the emotions and will are diseased; the higher moral faculties are perverted and cannot act normally. The drunkard has been switched off the main line of healthy life and hving upon a sidetrack of progressive dissolution, the opposite of evolution."

ife and hving upon a sidetrack of progressive dissolution, the opposite of evolution."

One of the great difficulties in curing the drunkard of his disease is to convince him that he stands in need of help. Little by little the disease fastens itself upon a man so that he is never willing to recognize his true condition, and he is never willing to help himself or to be helped by others. Who among our friends willing to be called a drunkard or a slave to strong drink? Man boasts of his will power. "I can take it or leave it alone." but man's will power, when his body and mind are enslaved by the demon of drink is as helpless and weak as a willow tree in the path of a cyclone. One thing is sure, the drunkard must be helped by his friends, left to himself, the end is briffy told—a drunkard's grave. Upon those who have drunken relatives and friends a grave responsibility rests when the virtues of Haines' Golden Specific are brought to their notice. This remedy in the hands of the drunkard's friend, administered in his tea, coffee or food, will effectively do the work. A wife writes: "I received the package of Golden Specific some time since and I am now giving it to my husband who is a hard drinker. He does not know he is taking it. Have heard nim any several times since taking it that he is getting so that he does not care for whisky for which I have to thank God and the Golden Specific Company." Mother, wife, sister, it is not necessary that your son, husband or brother should go to a sanitarium to die, while within your reach is an infallible remedy, guaranteed to cure. Write Goldsn Specific Co., Cincinnati, O., for particulars.

Your Liver Needs It.

The impure condition of our city water, so largely used for drinking purwater, so largely used for drinking purposes, is now recognized as the most prolific cause of local disease. Many kidney and liver and even Bright's disease are either attributable to or greatly aggravated by this unhealthful condition of the city water supply. So great has the general spread of disease originated in this cause that many substitutes, such as magnetic and mineral waters, have been brought in great demand. Eliott & Co., the well-known grocers, have been alive to this subject, and have laid in a stock of four useful and have laid in a stock of four useful mineral waters of known merit.
